

Irish History Round Table

FOUNDED MARCH 1971

WWW.IRISHHISTORYROUNDTABLE.ORG

September 2017

Ernie O'Malley: Rebel in the Irish Revolution

For our September IHRT, we have the welcoming Cormac well known Irish Revolution and, of the arts in Ireland. acclaimed book, On Wound, giving us experience of

19th meeting of the pleasure of O'Malley, son of the participant in the in later life, supporter He wrote the Another Man's direct insight into the internment and family to family intrigue. It is a story of recovery, healing, and moving onto achievement in free Ireland. It is also about American involvement and , in particular, Connecticut support of these times. His books will be available for sale at the meeting. Join us at 7:30pm at the Knights of St. Patrick hall, New Haven.

Cormac O'Malley, son of Ernie, preserver of his father's literary and historical image, has worked forty years in international legal practice while living in many foreign countries. He now lives with his wife in Stonington.

UPCOMING EVENTS

- Sept. 30: bus trip to Brian Friel's play at Irish Rep Theater, NYC. Contact: M.McMahon, CTIAHS
- Oct. 29: Irish Book Club. Reading Black-Eyed Blond by John Banville. Contact through IHRT site.